

Earth Day, Every Day

Every day I see a lot of people throwing dirty trash all over the town. One can see it in the streets, on beaches, in forests, everywhere. It is disgusting. It reminds me of the Middle Ages when streets were filthy.

I do not know how someone can throw a cigarette butt or any other litter outside the bin. People are doing it every day although they know they threaten themselves and their own health. Earth is the only planet where there is life and we should all take better care of it. There is an old saying: „What goes around, comes around“, meaning that people's actions, whether good or bad, will have consequences on their own lives.

We will soon mark Earth Day and I think each and every one of us should try to be more Earth-friendly. We should all be grateful for what we have and we should not forget that Earth should be clean every day, not just on Earth Day.

Ivana Janeš, 6.b